

Projects

Do you need a fun challenge that is fulfilling but not related to your job? You need a project. Because, let's be honest. Work is sometimes, well, work. Hobbies are sometimes too lazy or not fulfilling enough. But projects are a good balance between the two. Projects take work but it is fun work because it is something you probably choose to do. And projects are fulfilling. Rewarding.

Having a hard time coming up with a fun project? There are home improvement projects, service projects, building projects, craft projects, creative projects. If you don't even know what kinds of projects appeal to you, wander down to your local bookstore and browse the magazine section. There you'll find a variety of subjects/ideas. Choose a project in an area that appeals to you and when you complete your project, you'll feel such a gratifying sense of accomplishment.
