

Use Your Power for Good

We have all been given power. Influence. Talents. The question is, how do you use your power? Do you use it for good or for evil? It is rare that we have zero influence on those around us. We either contribute to their world or take away from it. So ask yourself . . . “what kind of person am I?” Are you positive? Or negative? Do you build those around you? Or tear them down? Do you help others? Or use them? Are you petty and jealous? Or are you supportive and encouraging? Are you kind? Or mean? Do you talk highly of others? Or gossip about them behind their backs? You have the power to make all the difference in the lives of those around you. Use your powers for good, not evil. You'll feel a peace in your life that you can't get any other way.